

a musical comedy/drama

Sixteen-year-old Cape Town schoolboy Harry Philton does not know where he is going, or why life is so empty and futile.

With wasted years behind and with nothing in front of him except an uncaring mother, a non-existent father and tired, cynical teachers, he looks for consolation in the camaraderie to be found on the stands at the local soccer stadiums.

There, together with his companions – the happy-go-lucky, but manipulative, Zigger Zagger, leader of City FC's fans, and his fickle girlfriend, Sandra – he gives frenzied outlet to his bottled-up energy.

ZIGGER ZAGGER is a music-hall show, with a large chorus and a number of quick-fire sketches that chart Harry's progress from his dead-end school to the ultimate respectability of work.

“Hell, we have to offer youth something, even if it's just escape or a good conduct badge”

Peter Terson [author of ZIGGER ZAGGER]
